Class Meeting, Fifth month 22.1 PAPEB: PERSONAL SERVICE. In this age of large liberty of thought and of action, it is impossible that we should realize fully the value of our inheritance. We accept this blessing of religious liberty, as we accept the daily blessing of the sunshine, whose unfailing recurrence may even make us forget to be thankful. That we may gather together in peace and quietness-- released from the impositions and teachings of men, to come into the immediate presence of the Most High; and theD. without let or hindrance confer together concerning the best interests of our Society--this is an inheritance whose price in the beginning was blood. What is required of us as heirs of this inheritance? There comes to my mind the parable of the man traveling into a far country, and leaving to his servants to every one according to bis several ability the talents five, and two, and one to be so used in bis absence as to promote the best interests of his possessions. It was the use of the talents, until the five gained other five, and the two other two, that earned the rulership over many things. The unused, the buried talent, exiled the unprofitable steward into outward darkness. Uow can we best use this gift from the past in fulfilling our own destiny, and then to pass it on to our successors? There are phases of this question...
