Grove Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 304 pages. When JAI MCDIARMID is violently murdered and left in a back alley of Glasgow, no one is surprised. A heroin dealer who was openly sleeping with a drug traffickers girlfriend, McDiarmid led a life which seems to have made him a multitude of enemies, providing the police with a large list of suspects responsible for his death. Detective Superintendent CATHERINE MCLEOD intends to investigate all angles of the case. A mother of two, Catherine occasionally fears that her commitment to work is putting unneeded strain on her marriage. Her love of the job, though, means that she never intends to relinquish her badge. Catherine ventures into the citys rougher areas to question McDiarmids friends, harboring the belief that, in Glasgow, a murder is exactly as it seems. Meanwhile, inexperienced private investigator JASMINE STEEL is shadowing a man suspected of committing insurance fraud. A failed actress who has returned to Glasgow after the death of her single mother, Jasmine begins training as a private eye out of economic necessity. Her mothers cousina man who she affectionately refers to as UNCLE JIM is a retired detective who began an investigation service to pad his small pension. Jim takes her in and tries to teach her his trade. However, Jasmynes approach to her work is amateurish, as evidenced by her nervous response when she helps Jim by following the insurance fraud suspect he is tailing. Spotted and confronted by the suspect, she barely saves the situation by acting her way out of it. The next day, Jasmine cannot get in contact with Jim; hes neither at his house nor answering his cell-phone. Fearing the worst, she contacts the police, who are reluctant to begin a search. With no other option, she takes it upon herself...
