Excerpt: . . . with water: in that case they are generally found sitting on the fallen reeds, waiting for the ebbing of the tide. Their food consists of various aquatic plants, . seeds, insects and small fish. The Coot swims remarkably well, and, when wounded, will dive like a Duck. It is known in Pennsylvania by the name of the Mud-hen. American Aroset. This species arrives on the coast of Cape May late in April; rears its young, and departs to the south early in October. It almost constantly frequents the shallow pools in the salt marshes: wading about, often to the belly, in search of marine worms, snails, and various insects that abound among the soft muddy bottoms of the pools. It is a shy and noisy bird; and from its perpetual clamour it is called by the inhabitants of Cape May, the Lawyer. The nest of this species is generally fixed in a tuft of grass, at a short distance from one of the above mentioned pools; the eggs are four in number, of a dull olive colour, marked with large irregular blotches of black. The long-legged Aroset arrives on the coast of New Jersey about the same time as the foregoing; and frequents the like situations, in the salt marshes. But they are considerably more numerous than the American Avoset. They breed in small communities: the nests of six or eight pair being generally found in the vicinity of one of...
