Not illustrated. 1920 Excerpt: . . . facilitated by the plan adopted this year of publishing a number of the reports and papers of the different Sections in the Bulletin instead of holding them for the Proceedings. In line with this plan, the report of the Insurance Committee appears in this issue, together with an abstract of the discussion thereon at the convention. If the labors of the Accounting Section are thus utilized and digested, particularly by the younger accounting men, much has been gained. If on the other hand, these reports serve only to make up a handsome blue volume lettered in gold to be placed carefully in a glass case and seldom referred to thereafter, we have had our trouble for our pains, and little else. Convention Report of Committee on Insurance The organization of a Committee on Insurance was first formally suggested to the Executive Committee by the Accounting Section,...
